

Polish horseshoes official rules

Place the two boards eight feet apart. Each person or team will need six washers. The washers are thrown from one board to the other while standing on the end of the board you are throwing from. Each team takes turns throwing their washers consecutively. Your goal is to attain exactly twenty-one points by throwing your washers into the holes on the two boards. Each board has a set point value; the large hole is one point, the medium three, and the small five. Your score can never be greater than twenty one, so if you throw a number of points that would put you over twenty one, subtract that number from your previous score instead. (Example: If you have an 18 before you throw, then you throw a 5, $18+5=23$, so subtract 5 from 18 instead, giving you 13.) If another team's washer lands in the same hole as yours, your points are wiped out. If you have eighteen points or more, you must hit the top of the board with your washers, but if you have less than eighteen points, you may pass the turn to your partner. The first team to reach exactly twenty-one first wins the game.
